Norris Carter is new GM Aeronautical Commercial at AKL

Auckland Airport has appointed Norris Carter as the new General Manager of Aeronautical Commercial from 10 November, responsible for the New Zealand gateway's route development strategy.

Carter has over 20 years' experience in airline, strategy and commercial management roles with a deep understanding of travel, trade and tourism markets, especially in South East Asia. Since 2000 he has worked for Qantas, initially playing a role in the growth of its profitable frequent flyer business and more recently he led strategy, network planning and revenue management for the airline's international operations.