

Bluedog expands its team with new Project Manager

As a result of 'strong growth' over the last 12 months, TRBusiness partner, Bluedog Productions, has appointed Andrew Machin as a new Project Manager.

The company which produces high profile activations, promotions and events for brands in duty free & travel retail says that Machin brings 'proven business development skills and live event production experience to the company'.

"Andrew's experience spans the entire live events spectrum, from conferences and exhibitions through to roadshows, product launches and activations," says Bluedog.

Machin will work closely with the senior team at Bluedog, ensuring 'fresh creative' is paired with the 'highest standards of delivery' across all live events, installations and film.

DIVERSE CLIENT PORTFOLIO

"I'm delighted to have been given the opportunity to bring my knowledge and experience to Bluedog," says Machin.

"With a history steeped in delivering very high quality projects to its diverse client portfolio, I am looking forward to creatively contributing and developing Bluedog's production offering."

Bluedog have built a strong reputation for premium quality branded product display and retail spaces in airports, and for conferences and live events. They are looking to continue and build on this good work whilst maintaining their excellent client portfolio.
